

JEWELRY OPEN CHARITY DEATH OF COUNTESS DRIVE FOR MILLION REGALLS LIBEL SUIT

Roundup for Support of 91 Affiliated Institutions Begins To-day.

TO HOLD FASHION SHOW

Thirty Debutantes and Young Matrons Will Appear as Models.

The roundup of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies for the support of ninety-one affiliated charitable institutions began yesterday, with the goal placed at the million dollar mark.

Trade committees in every industry in which members of Jewish faith participate to any great extent have been formed to take the place of street solicitation and benefit theatrical performances. The workers will rely entirely upon personal subscriptions, with renewals at the end of each year. The campaign is under the direction of Miss L. Bernstein, aided by Edwin M. Otterbourg and I. E. Goldwasser, associate chairman.

In explaining the necessity for this roundup the federation states that the directors were faced with a much smaller budget in 1922 than in previous years, and rather than cut down the allowances of the various institutions they voted the previous amounts and trusted to the generosity of the public to make up the difference. Unless the roundup is successful the institutions, it was said, would be forced to operate on borrowed money.

A feature of the campaign will be an exhibition beginning to-morrow at the Hotel Pennsylvania showing the work of the ninety-one institutions of the federation. Elaborate entertainments have been prepared by the women's division, under the direction of Mrs. Sidney Borg, chairman, and Mrs. Isaac M. Kuble, vice-chairman.

Emma Frohman is in charge of Theater Day on Tuesday, when a group of prominent theatrical stars will appear. A fashion show in charge of Leo Simonson and Chamberlain Dodd has been arranged for Thursday, the closing day. Thirty debutantes and young matrons will appear as models for the latest fashions of some of the most widely known dress designers.

The stars who will appear on Theater Day include Julia Arthur, Blanche Bates, Ruth Chatterton, Ina Claire, Gladys Hanson, Florence Reed, Hilda Spong, Frances Starr and Leonore Ulric.

Anna de Bremont, American. Had Legal Tilt With W. S. Gilbert.

CALLED 'HER IMPOSTOR

She Won Case and Author of 'Pinafore' Sent Check to Cover Expenses.

The sudden death here of Anna Countess de Bremont closes the career of the interesting personality of the singer, traveler, journalist and novelist. She was Anna Dunphy of Cincinnati, an Irish-American beauty, when she acquired her title by marriage to the Count de Bremont, a Frenchman who, while a practicing physician in New York, did not use the title.

Her husband died in 1882 and she came to London, where she began her literary career. She wrote "The Gentleman Digger" after a visit to South Africa. In 1894 she attempted an interview with William S. Gilbert, who answered that his terms were twenty guineas.

The Countess replied that she anticipated the pleasure of writing his obituary for nothing. Gilbert immediately sent a letter to the Telegraph saying that he thought he was justified in refusing an interview with what he called a self-styled Countess, and thereupon she sued him for libel.

In the trial she was attacked by the learned counsel Sir Edward Clarke for having written "Poems of Fashion," but she neatly retorted: "Read the dedication," which he did. It was thus: "To my husband, the memory of whose tender love and passionate devotion inspired these poems."

She won her suit, and got a farthing damages, each side paying the respective costs. The next day the author of "H. M. S. Pinafore" gallantly sent her a check covering the expense she had been put to.
